A DUPLICATE GAME.

That baseball bulletin is a public benefactor. Yesterday it gave from two to three thousand people who were unable to get to the Polo Grounds the pleasure of practically witnessing the great game of baseball played by New York against St. Louis as the first of the championship series.

It was amusing to see the eagerness with which the crowd watched the pins as they were adroitly moved on the novel "diamond" board, and to hear the expert comments made as point after point in the game was recorded on the mimic field. No more attractive novelty has ever been offered to the people of New York than THE WOBLD's simultaneous playing on Park Row of the game in progress at the Polo Grounds.

WRIGHT BANFORD'S TRUE CONDITION.

He Is a Very Sick Man, Though the Reports Have Been Exaggerated.

Wright Sanford is no worse to-day than he has been and is able to sit up occasionally. Dr. H. Holbrook Curtis, of 118 Madison avenue, his physician, said to an Evening World reporter:

'Mr. Sanford is suffering from general tuberculoss. He may live for some time, as consumption always is attended by these rallyings up to the very last. I think it highly probable he will rally from this."

One of Mr. Sanford's friends told the reporter there had been some exaggeration in the report of the club man's extreme danger.

POLICEMAN JAMES PLAHERTY IS IN A RATHER SERIOUS BOX.

to Brought Aunie Purdy to Court and Sent Mary Burke to Jail-The Mistake Being Discovered, Flaherty Will Have to Exto Mary by the Discovery.

A serious complaint was made to-day to the Police Commissioners against Patrolman James Flaherty, of the Mercer street station. Late on Monday night he found a young woman lying on the street in University place. She was intoxicated.

At the station-bouse she gave her name as Annie Purdy, aged nineteen, of 32 Beach street. She sobered up in a cell, and at f o'clock yesterday morning Flaherty took her to Jefferson Market Police Court,

She was locked in the pen there with a number of other unfortunates, among them being a neatly dressed girl named May Burke, being a neatty dressed girl named May Burke, who is twenty-six years old and lives with her mother at 438 West Thirty-sixth street, Policeman Thomas L. Conklin, of the West Thirtieth street station-house, had arrested May late on Monday night for soliciting in West Thirty-third street.

Justice Gorman opened court a few minutes after 9 o'clock. The prisoners are arraigned before him by precincts, and the prisoners from the Mercer street station were brought out first.

prisoners from the Mercer street station were brought out first.

Flaherty went to the pen and brought Miss Burke into court. She knew that he was not the man who arrested her, but she stood too much in awe of the uniform to volunteer any information, and when it came to her turn to go before the Magistrate she calmly heard herself referred to as Annie Purdy.

"Be sworn," said the Justice to Policeman Flaherty.

"Be sworn, said the bible and swore solThe officer took the bible and swore solemnly to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

"What did you arrest this woman for?"

"Intoxication. She was lying on the street."

'May smiled and told His Honor that she had never drank a drop of intoxicating liquor in her life.

Flaherty laughed and May was fined $5. She did not try to straighten matters, doubtless thinking that she got off lighter on the charge of intoxication than she would have done if the real complaint had been pressed against her.

done if the real companies against her.

Flaherty went away in the proud consciousness of having performed her duty. Miss Burke, not having a fiver handy, went into Burke, not having a fiver handy, went into prison.

About 10 o'clock the prisoners from the Nineteenth Precinct, or West Thirtieth street station; were erdered out of the pen. Including Miss Burke, Conklin originally had three girls for the same offense. He could only find two then. True, there was a bedraggled young woman lett in the pen, but he knew nothing about her.

He reported the disappearance of one of his prisoners to Sergt. Coombes, of the Court Squad, who instituted an investigation at once. He saked the ragged woman in the pen who she was.

'Oh, I am a remnant," she flippantly freplied. She finally gave her name as Annie plied. She finally gave her name as Annie Purdy, and then Flaherty's egregious blunder was discovered.

Miss Burke was rearraigned, and tried on the charge she was guilty of and fined $1, which was paid.

Annie was fined $10. She is doing ten days, as she cannot pay the fine.

How About Julia?

In the Editor of the Evening World:

I would suggest to "Anxious Father" that there is no prettier name by which he can call his "bouncing girl" than that of Julia. New York, Oct. 16. Archie.

But len't It an Importation? the Editor of the Evening World; "Englandine" would be a nice name for the girl of "Anxious Father." PR. BENEDICT, 95 Bleecker street, city.
